31,000 OHIOANS TO HEAR DRAFT CALL

COLUMBUS, Oct. 19.—Approximately 31,000 of Ohio's young men will be drafted for military service during the next year it was estimated today by Adj. Gen. Gilson D. Light after the National Draft headquarters revealed the quota for the Fifth Corps Area.

According to Washington, 91,192 will be drafted from the area which includes Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia. It was estimated by Ohio Selective Service Director Light that 34 to 35 percent of the corps area quota would come from this state. A total of 840,707 registered last Wednesday.

FATHER CARRIES TOTS TO SAFETY AS HOUSE CAR STOVE BLOWS UP

A gasoline stove in a house car, parked near the High Street School, exploded at 10:30 p. m. Friday, the flames threatening to burn two small children sleeping in the car. They were carried out of the burning vehicle by their father, who received hand burns and was treated by city firemen.

The fire was extinguished after it had burned a hole in the roof. According to firemen, flames from the stove, which stood in front of the door, made escape for the occupants difficult.

Neither firemen or state patrolmen obtained names of the persons involved, although they are connected with the Pumpkin Show.

300 FEARED DEAD WHEN FLOOD STRIKES GERONA

MADRID, Oct. 19.—About 300 casualties were reported today as a result of terrific floods in the Gerona region northwest of Barcelona and throughout the well known Vich sausage district west of Gerona.

The floods inundated many square miles of territory when the Ter and Onar Rivers burst their banks following persistent, torrential rains.

106 ENTER BIG FRIDAY FEATURE FOR SHOW CASH

Mary Ellen Graybill Of Darbyville Winner In Division No. 1

BLONDES GET ATTENTION

Many Outstanding Outfits Prepared By Mothers In Competition

By Lyall Cryder

Babies of Circleville and Pickaway County took bows Friday when they participated in one of the most colorful pageants of the entire Pumpkin Show.

The tiny floats of the parade, most of them made by mothers of the contenders, were as unique in design and as perfect in detail as the professionally decorated ones which have been the outstanding features of the other parades. One hundred and six entries were listed, not so many as last year when there were 167, but many more than were expected since the appearance of infantile paralysis in the vicinity.

Assisted by the beautiful floats and bands which have appeared in other parades of the Pumpkin Show, the baby parade got underway on schedule and wended its way through throngs who greeted the dainty entrants with smiles and cheers.

Blonde Mary Ellen Graybill, 11 months, captivated the judges with her sweet smile and general appearance of alluring good health, winning the first prize as the prettiest white baby under one year of age. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Graybill of Darbyville. Bonnie Sue Thomas, five months, and Ferd Martin, 11 months, two other blondes, ran second and third respectively, making it seem that it was a day for that type until engaging Donald Leon Ramey, a blue-eyed, red-head of five months, won fourth place. Bonnie Sue is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas, 422 South Clinton Street; Ferd is the son of Mr. and Mrs. (Continued on Page Eight)

THREE FORMER FRENCH CHIEFS FACING CHARGES

VICHY, France, Oct. 19.—Grave official charges were placed today against three former high-ranking French government authorities as a result of a lengthy investigation by the state attorney.

Leon Blum, France's first socialist premier who headed the "popular front" regime, Paul Reynaud, war-time premier who succeeded Edouard Daladier in that office, and former Interior Minister Georges Mandel were the men named. Blum was accused of "betraying the duties of the premier."

Mandel was charged with "corruption and speculation against French currency."

Reynaud, who remained as premier until a few days before France's capitulation to Germany, was charged with "embezzlement of public funds."

The charges grew out of the protracted legal inquiry at Riom into responsibility for France's defeat.

JOE GOODMAN INJURED IN ROUTE 22 ACCIDENT

Joe Goodman, Amanda, received severe head lacerations Friday, when his automobile crashed into the rear of a car driven by R. W. Martin, Columbus, a quarter of a mile east of Circleville on Route 22.

Goodman's head struck the sun visor as the two cars collided, cutting his forehead.

Goodman told investigating officers that the Martin car slowed down in front of him and he did not have time to stop.

BRITISH EDICT HALTS SALE OF SILK STOCKINGS

LONDON, Oct. 19.—With mixed emotions and a tinge of sadness, the men of Britain read a stern Board of Trade edict today, wondering what the effect will be on the limbs of shapely British beauties.

The Board of Trade issued an order prohibiting sale of silk stockings as of December 1—just 25 days before Christmas. The ruling was regarded as an indirect economic thrust at Japan, where natural silk is a major export.

Sale of artificial silk will still be permitted, however.

AIRMEN TRADE HEAVY PUNCHES

RAF Ignores Bad Weather To Raid Western Area Of Reichland

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Ploughing to Germany through soupy weather, British bombing planes pressed their offensive against the Nazi war machine with attacks on two objectives, an official announcement said today.

"Owing to adverse weather conditions, last night's operations of RAF bombers were carried out on a reduced scale," the Air Ministry said.

"However, attacks were made on a naval target and on an aluminum works in western Germany."

Meanwhile, it was reported that several German raiders were shot down during last night's Nazi raids on London as a result of the most concentrated and rapid anti-aircraft fire yet heard in the British capital.

The all-clear signal terminating London's 231st alarm of the war ended about 7 a. m. and brought to an end the sixth week of the Nazi air "blitz" on England.

Low-lying clouds and mist which hampered the German bombers made the night a relatively "dull" one for the capital. Occasional raiders approached the capital at low altitudes but anti-aircraft fire kept them from the central sections of the city.

As a result the Germans unloaded their bombs on the outskirts before heading back toward the coast. One raider was believed to have been brought down on the fringe of the London area.

Other German bombers attacked Liverpool, but reports indicated this raid proved weak. In a nearby Merseyside town, however, Nazi bombs hit a church, a chapel and an insane asylum.

An Air Ministry communique said the Nazi attacks began shortly after dark and continued until the early hours of this morning. Later they were resumed on a smaller scale but spread over a wide area with London and the English midlands receiving "particular attention."

Complications were added to the diplomatic picture when George H. Earle, United States minister to Bulgaria, suddenly left Sofia for Budapest for what was styled an "informal visit." Purpose of this trip was not disclosed. Earle was expected to spend three days in the Hungarian capital.

Eden, now in Egypt inspecting British defenses, was expected to arrive shortly in Turkey to preside over an important conference among all British diplomatic representatives in eastern Europe. (Continued on Page Eight)

OTHER FAMILIES SIGN UP MANY SONS FOR DRAFT

Since mention in The Daily Herald of the registration of the four sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Brown of Madison Township, two other county families have called attention to their sons who were registered Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Eccard of Walnut Township have six sons who were eligible for registration and in addition another son, J. R. Eccard, 14, at home.

The Eccard boys who signed up included Robert E., who became 36 October 17, Lewis G., 33, Paul E., 31, Russell C., 29, of Ashville; Woodrow W., 27, at home and Emmitt W., 25, of Circleville.

Five sons of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dunkle of Pickaway Township were registered also Wednesday. The Dunkle boys are Stanley, 28, of Dayton; David, 27, of Circleville; Donald, 25, of Lancaster; Dwight, 23, Pickaway Township; and Ralph, 21, of the home.

John Ferguson of the Lancaster Pike has four boys of draft age, two of whom are already in service. The sons are Emery, 32; Lloyd, 29; Lundy, 26, and John W. (Doc), 24. The latter two are members of the National Guard.

BALKANS TENSE; EDEN MAY VISIT SOVIET CAPITAL

British War Secretary To Seek Improvement Of Relations

NEWS IS CONFLICTING

Russia Denies Planning To Participate In Four Power Talks

BUDAPEST, Oct. 19.—Feverish diplomatic activity engulfed the Balkans today as Budapest received reports that British War Secretary Anthony Eden may soon go to Moscow in an effort to improve Anglo-Russian relations.

Eden also may try to bring about a Russo-Turkish alliance, according to these advices, which indicated marked intensification of the race between Britain and the axis powers to reach some new "meeting of minds" with Moscow.

Simultaneously Romania took another long stride into the Italo-German camp, it was reported, with revelation at Bucharest that all war materials sent to Romania by Great Britain and France will be sent into the Reich.

(Editor's Note: Russia's role in forthcoming diplomatic maneuvers was the subject of conflicting reports from far-flung quarters of the globe.)

In Rome yesterday diplomatic circles said Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano may soon leave either for Berlin or Moscow to participate in Italo-German-Soviet-Japanese talks aimed at a Russo-Japanese non-aggression pact.

Soviet Denies Reports

(But the official Soviet (Tass) news agency specifically denied a Japanese newspaper report that the USSR had decided to call a conference among these four powers at Moscow.

(Yet from far-off Hong Kong came a dispatch stating that Berlin and Moscow are offering to mediate between China and Japan and have proposed an armistice to terminate the Sino-Japanese hostilities.)

Complications were added to the diplomatic picture when George H. Earle, United States minister to Bulgaria, suddenly left Sofia for Budapest for what was styled an "informal visit." Purpose of this trip was not disclosed. Earle was expected to spend three days in the Hungarian capital.

JAPANESE HURL MANY BOMBS ON BURMA HIGHWAY

HONG KONG, Oct. 19.—Japanese planes intensified their bombing attacks on the newly reopened Burma Road today, hammering great stretches of the mountain highway in China after initial assaults on Kunming, capital of Yunnan province and northern terminus of the route.

Squadrons of Japanese naval planes blasted bridges along the road well south of Kunming, the Japanese naval headquarters in South China announced.

(A dispatch from Tokyo said it was understood one of the bridges bombed by the Japanese spans the upper reaches of the Mekong River in Chinese territory.)

The rigid marked beginning of a systematic drive to render the road useless for transport of supplies to the Chinese armies of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Yesterday Japanese bombers violently pounded munitions plants and other targets at Kunming. The Japanese claimed a large

Eligible Again

ALTHOUGH he served in the marine corps during the first World War, Adurn Oppenheimer of Portsmouth, O., shown above with one of his four children, had to register under the terms of the selective service program for possible duty with Uncle Sam's armed forces. Oppenheimer is still within the eligible age group. He was only 13 years old when he joined the marine corps in 1918.

BEQUESTS MADE IN WRIGHT WILL

Worthington And Springfield Homes To Share; Two Aid Societies Named

The will of Emma R. Wright, probated Friday, asks that $5,000 of the estimated $14,000 estate be given to the Methodist Children's Home, Worthington, and $4,000 be given to the trustees of the Ohio Masonic Home of Springfield, to be used wholly for the benefit of the Children's Home in the memory of her deceased husband, William M. Wright.

To the Ladies Aid societies of the Methodist, the United Brethren and the Lutheran churches of Ashville, she has awarded $100 each. The remainder of the estate will be divided among the next of kin.

Letter testamentary have been issued to Clarence Squires, Ashville.

Frank A. Lynch, Circleville soft drink manufacturer, was in the hog calling contest, and received a nice hand for his efforts.

Rides, Shows Slide

As the big festival moved toward its grand finale, Tom D. Krinn, director in charge of rides and amusements, said that the show will produce about 20 percent less revenue than last year. The crowds have not been so large, nor have they spent as much money in the rides and shows as they did last year. Checking his figures, Mr. Krinn reported that the second day of the show in 1939 saw 9,892 persons on the rides, compared with 7,813 this year. In 1939 the shows produced

About 20 Percent Less Revenue To Be Gained By Agricultural Society; Fiddlers, Dancers Vie Tonight

Overcast skies and a light rain threatened to put a damper on the closing features of the thirty-seventh annual Pumpkin Show, Saturday, a shower starting to fall at 10 a. m. and continuing through the morning.

But, despite the unfavorable weather, many persons were swarming into Circleville to participate in the final events. Outstanding features of Saturday's program were to be the 4-H Club parade, scheduled to move at 2 o'clock; presentation of trophies to owners of the outstanding pumpkins, and the grand contests for fiddlers, square dancers and callers.

The Pickaway County 4-H youngsters, members of some of Ohio's outstanding 4-H Clubs, will be putting on their first big parade in Pumpkin Show history. In the procession will be the entries of the various schools in the healthiest Boy and Healthiest Girl contest. Winners of the event will be presented handsome trophies by the Circleville Kiwanis Club in addition to the cash awards of $15 each.

The judging of the entries has been completed by Dr. A. D. Blackburn, who is county health commissioner, and by Miss Margaret Hunsicker, county health nurse. The winners will not be announced until after the parade.

Fred Cook of Circleville R. F. D. and William A. Duvall of Harrison Township will receive Mills Restaurant trophies at 3 p. m. Saturday in a ceremony at the Court and Main Street pumpkin display. Cook had the largest pumpkin, 107 pounds, and Duvall had the pumpkin adjudged best for pie-making purposes.

Dancing Finals Ready

The square dancing feature will include finals in dancing, fiddling and calling, grand prizes to be awarded. Hog callers and husband callers will vie also, as will jittersbugs. Thursday's events were won by Mrs. Elmer Oliver of Circleville in husband calling, Freeman Marshall of Stoutsville in hog calling, and John and Mabel, a Columbus team, in jittersbugging. The latter duo has promised to return for a performance Saturday night.

Frank A. Lynch, Circleville soft drink manufacturer, was in the hog calling contest, and received a nice hand for his efforts.

ASHVILLE

By S. D. Fridley
Ashville, Phone 79

The Rev. O. W. Smith and family had for recent visitors at the U. B. parsonage about twenty from the Robtown church. The baskets they brought with them were numerous and well filled. A supper of all the good things those Robtown church ladies know so well how to prepare was served for all. And besides the Smith larder was filled to overflowing for future use when these good friends had taken their departure.

The automatic guns of 45 and .25 calibre which were taken from one Ballard on the night of July 4, last and in which foray he staged, lost his life in an effort to shoot his way out, were returned to Marshalls Walden and Scott a few days ago by a federal agent. The guns are permanently owned here.

Monday evening both the Ashville-Harrison high school board and the village council will be in session. The sidewalks where cement had been used for repair are now open to traffic. And the workmen did an extra good job, we'd say. A lot more besides the hand kiddies are pleased that they won first place with their outfit and music at the Pumpkin Show Thursday evening. Some splendid improvements with paint and cement have been made this week at the creamery and Fortner business places.

The Crites cannery is through for the season with both corn and lima beans. Pumpkins, and seemingly plenty of them from somewhere, are getting attention now.

William Bowers, Jr., who is now a member of Uncle Sam's defensive forces, is a tuba performer in the band.

Norma Jean Willoughby, a junior in the high school here, who formerly attended school in the county seat, is an absentee from school this week on account of sickness.

Moving pictures were shown Ashville students Thursday afternoon from 1 to 2. Four reels were given including interesting features about Eskimos, Red Cross Nursing, and the making of locks.

Several Ashville persons are having a problem choosing between the Pumpkin Show and the Ohio State-Minnesota football game.

Presbyterians Of Nation Join In Sesquicentennial Function

Emphasis Is Placed On Educational Work In Congregation

The First Presbyterian Church will observe Sesquicentennial Sunday of the Board of Christian Education, in its worship service Sunday morning. Churches of the denomination have been asked to emphasize the educational program of the Board of Christian Education during the public worship hour of the church.

The church maintains fifty-three colleges and fifty-two Westminster Foundations at state and other universities and eleven theological seminaries. The year 1938 marked the 150th anniversary of the first General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America. In recognition of that fact the Board of Christian Education was instructed to raise $10,000,000 to be known as the sesquicentennial fund which is to be used to further its educational program. This fund is to be a living memorial to the enterprise of Presbyterians throughout the century and a half.

The Rev. Robert T. Kelsey, pastor, will speak on the theme "Educating For A World of Tomorrow." Mrs. Clark Will will sing a soprano solo during the service entitled "Evening and Morning" by Spicker, and Miss Abbe Mills Clarke will play the following organ selections: "Toccata" by Rogers, "Nocturne" by Borodin, and "March" by Raff.

At the conclusion of the pastor's sermon seven new members will be received into the membership of the church.

OAKLAND

Mr. C. E. Cline of Mt. Vernon spent Tuesday night with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Friesner.

Miss Daisy Bailey of Lancaster spent Tuesday with her sister, Mrs. George Boyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hedges were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hedges in Amanda.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Runkle, Mary, Ruth and Bob Jones were week end guests at the Howard Highley home.

Maybe the reason aggressor nations never bother Eskimos is because their "living room" usually is under 10 feet of snow.

Message of John the Baptist

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Luke 3.

John, son of Zacharias and Elizabeth, called the people of Israel to repent of their sins and he baptized them in the river Jordan.

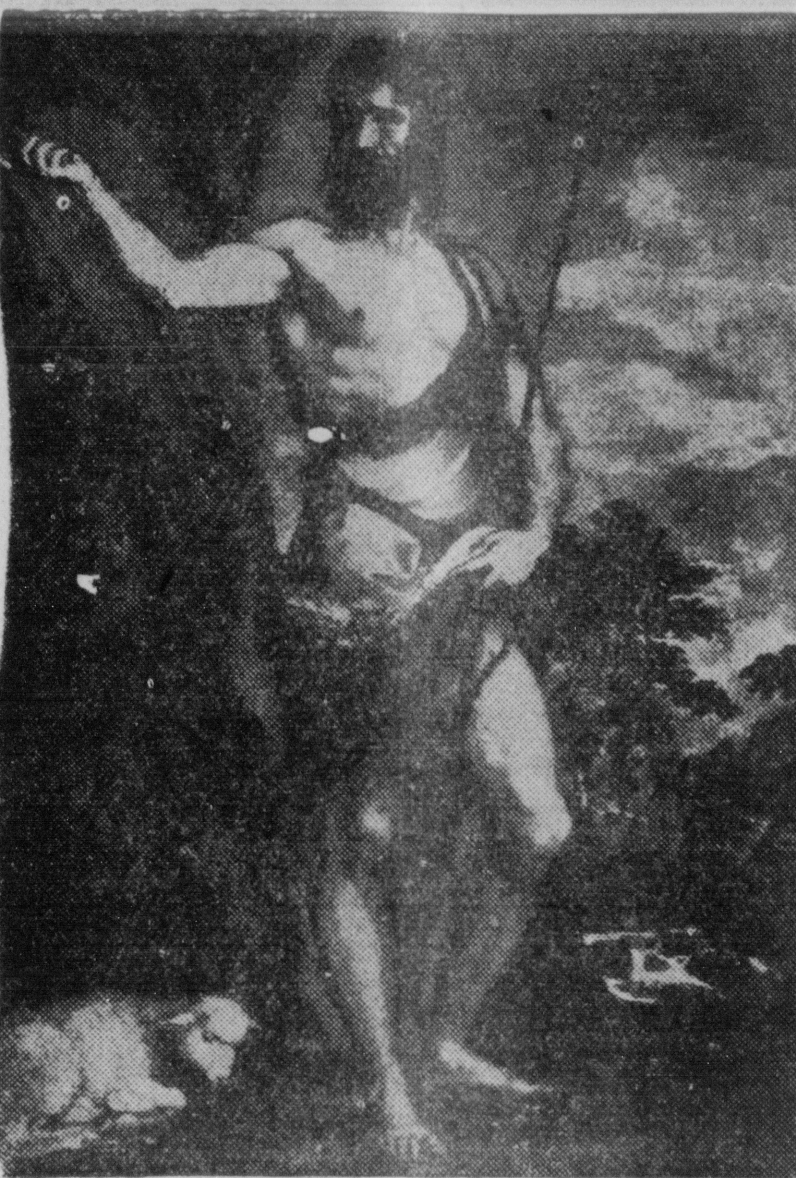

Publicans came to him to receive baptism and asked him what they should do. He told them to charge only a reasonable rate of interest.

Soldiers came also to John and asked him what they should do, and he answered: "Do violence to no man; neither accuse any man falsely."

He upbraided Herod, Tetrarch of Galilee, for taking his brother's wife, Herodias, and Herod had him put in prison. (GOLDEN TEXT—Luke 3:8.)

The Message of John the Baptist

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Newman Campbell

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for October 20 is Luke 3, the Golden Text being Luke 3:8, "Bring forth therefore fruits worthy of repentance.")

YOU REMEMBER, of course that Zacharias, the priest, and Elizabeth, his wife, had a son, born a few months before Jesus. His name was John, so named by the angel who had announced his birth to Zacharias.

This John, a previous lesson said, spent much time in the wilderness, and now he is a man who had been living in the wilderness for at least ten years. It is thought. It was the wilderness of Judea, a hot, blistering area known as Ghor, treeless, barren sandy hillsides and rocky plateaus that rise on the west side of the Jordan River.

In the 15th year of the reign of Tiberius Caesar, St. Luke tells us, when Pontius Pilate was governor of Judea and Herod tetrarch (ruler) of Galilee, and his brother Philip, tetrarch of Ituraea, this John emerged from the wilderness and began to preach the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins.

John's was the "voice of one crying in the wilderness. Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make His paths straight."

John was not one to speak softly to those whom he considered in the wrong. When the people flocked to hear him, he called them "vipers"—a "generation of vipers," and told them that they might consider themselves safe from the wrath to come because they were the children of Abraham, but that God could raise up children of Abraham from the very stones thereabout.

The Hebrews were at this time a subject race, ruled by the Romans and those of their own people who would serve under them. Public officials, and even high priests of the church, were dishonest, unscrupulous and grafters. The poor were ground down, and the plight of the people of Israel was sad indeed. Under the circumstances, no wonder they flocked to hear this new prophet who seemed to offer hope, even if he did belabor them for their sins. They gathered about him asking: "What shall we do then?"

Share With Others
John answered the people: "He that hath two coats, let him impart to him that hath none; and he that hath meat, let him do likewise."

They were not merely to repent you see, and be sorry for their wrongdoing, but they were to be actively charitable and share with those who were worse off than themselves.

Then the publicans (the tax collectors, and much hated) came to John and asked what they might do to put themselves right with their Maker. "Exact no more than that which is appointed you," was the answer. These tax collectors often collected more money than they were supposed to, by threats, etc., and pocketed the difference between what they had taken and what they must give to the government.

The soldiers then asked what they should do, and were told that they should do violence to no man, accuse no man falsely, and be content with their wages and not stir up trouble.

Can you imagine throngs flocking to the fields to hear a preacher today? If we had lost faith in our ministers and leaders as they had in John's time, it is quite possible that we would, however. And you must remember that the Jews were always looking for their Messiah to lead them out of all their troubles. Could this man be He, they asked themselves. "And as the people mused in their hearts of John, whether he were the Christ or not: "John answered, saying unto them all, I indeed baptize you with water; but One mightier than I cometh, the latchet (lacing) of whose shoes I am not worthy to unloose; He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire."

Jesus Himself came to John and was baptized, not because He had committed any sin, but because He wished to set an example to those who believed in Him.

As was said earlier in this lesson, John the Baptist did not mince words when he considered anyone had done wrong. Herod the Tetrarch, was an unscrupulous man, and he had fallen in love with his brother Philip's wife and taken her from Philip. Her name was Herodias. John reproved him sternly, so Herod put him in prison, where he suffered martyrdom, although St. Luke does not mention the latter in this chapter.

The chapter closes with a genealogy of Joseph, Mary's husband and Jesus' earthly father, tracing it back to Adam, who, says Luke, was the son of God.

DRAFTED ON THE HOOF

It isn't any picnic or Sunday afternoon hike that those fellows registering for military service are going to get into. Mechanized infantry is a grand institution, especially for any soldier with corns or flat feet; but viewed realistically, it's a dream of the future. The doughboys now joining up will mostly pound along on the hoof pretty much as their dads or uncles did in the last war, only more so.

Marching will be longer and harder, to match the new tempo and technique of this delicate art of soldiering. A commentator who knows about present practice in the tramp-tramp business says that whereas 12 to 15 miles a day were considered plenty for hardening the rookies in World War days, the standard now is 30 miles, "after which you are supposed to have enough energy left to charge the enemy." The only consoling thought is that the enemy may already have marched still farther.

This pedestrian stretch-out comes from the mechanization referred to above. The fellows on foot have to compete with the fellows in trucks. Moreover, according to the rule book, "a beaten enemy is relentlessly pursued, and each man gives every ounce of strength that he has in accomplishing this purpose." And also, as the book says, "the enemy's last resistance must be broken, as hitherto, by the infantry, and in the last hundred meters of a charge the infantry must accomplish this result unaided and solely by force of its own weapons."

THINKING NATIONALLY

BETWEEN the war and the election there is much confusion in this country. It is tragic that two such engrossing events, with all their fears and hopes and baffling problems, should be in progress at the same time. Yet little by little, thoughtful people begin to see ahead. A good statement of the situation comes from Philip Porter of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, who writes:

"Over and above everything else is the war, and the increasing realization that we are already in it unofficially, and that we haven't any time to lose in getting armed to the teeth. If you could figure out exactly what this situation does to voters, you'd probably have the final answer. Only one thing is really important—that the country choose the man best

POLITICAL CHAFF

WASHINGTON — Newsmen covering both W. W. and F. D. R. in recent weeks generally believe the GOP standard bearer has gained ground. Despite the Gallup poll, most correspondents consider the election still undecided . . . The Associated Press has vigorously protested to the Republican National Committee the use for campaign purposes of an AP news picture showing Roosevelt engaged in smiling conversation during the draft bill signing ceremony. Actually, the picture was snapped after the ceremony was over . . . Paul Smith, dynamic young editor of The San Francisco Chronicle, one of the papers closely followed in the White House, has taken leave to join the Willkie train as an adviser.

RUSSIA'S PREDICAMENT

Most U. S. diplomats register sadistic glee at the tight spot in which Russia finds herself as a result of Hitler's move into Romania. How tight that spot is can be gathered if you remember that for years, under both Czar and Stalin, it has been Russia's policy never to let anyone but a weak Turkey control the Dardanelles—for fear an enemy might come through the Black Sea.

But now—Germany already is on the shores of the Black Sea. Without even going through the Dardanelles the Nazis are in a strategic place to launch submarine attacks on Soviet shipping. In fact, submarines already are reported on railroad flat cars en route through Romania.

The Russians also are up against the fact that resistance against Hitler in Rumania means war all along their 1,700 miles of western border, from Finland and the Arctic to Bulgaria and the Black Sea. This far-flung line would be a tough job to defend against Hitler's war machine, despite the size of the Red Army.

However, if Stalin does not resist, he faces even greater danger next spring, when the Nazis will have consolidated their forces in Romania, perhaps in Turkey, and all the Balkans.

Reason for diplomatic glee is that both the U. S. State Department and the British Foreign Office have been flirting with Russia for months, trying to wean her away from the Axis. Sir Stafford Cripps, special British Ambassador in Moscow, could get nowhere, and it has only been within the last ten days that the State Department found the Russians in a genuinely cooperative frame of mind. But by this time it was too late.

able to unite this country, see it through the crisis, and lead it without any thought for profits for capitalists, hours for labor, pickings for political machines or personal aggrandisement. This country has got to get over hunting for petty reasons for voting for President, get over class consciousness and political consciousness, and think nationally both before and after election."

WORLD AT A GLANCE . . .

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

COL. LEONARD P. AYRES, recently conscripted by the government as its chief statistician in connection with its defensive preparedness program, is better known as an economist than as a military man. Nevertheless, he did do government statistics for Uncle Sam during the last World war, and was drafted for the same job this time because his work was so capable in that area.

Since then he's been editor of the Cleveland Trust company's bulletin, dealing with business conditions, of the moment and in prospect. The company gave him a leave of absence for his present duty.

His bulletin has been one of the most interesting publications of its kind anywhere in the country. Nevertheless, the celebrated Pete Witt, also of Cleveland, didn't approve of it. The northern Ohio city has been the single tax capital of the United States ever since the days of the late Mayor Tom Johnson. Tom was a dyed-in-the-wool believer in Henry Georgeism and Pete was his foremost lieutenant. The single tax isn't as militantly fought for now as it was then, but Pete Witt never for a minute lost faith in it.

Well, the single taxers' philosophy is altogether different from Colonel Ayres' and Pete wholeheartedly disapproved of the latter. He said the colonel's commercial forecasts were pure guesswork—not a bit of science about 'em. "Why, if I were mayor of this town," he told me, the last time I saw him, "I'd have that chap run out of it as a fortune teller."

A CRIMINAL ALIEN
Not long ago a veteran Washington correspondent for a foreign newspaper had to register as an alien. He's been in this country since away back under the Hoover administration, but he's never been naturalized.

One of the questions put to him was, "Were you ever convicted of a crime?"

Unhappily, while prohibition still reigned, the guy once had been caught taking a drink in a speakeasy and had been penalized for it. Regretfully he mentioned the incident in the questionnaire, turned it in to the proper official and started to get out, hoping to escape before his malefaction was noticed.

"Hey," yelled the official, stopping him, "you can't get away with this."

"W-w-what?" stammered the miserable outlander, who hadn't realized that his offense was deplorable.

"Heck, no," rejoined the functionary, "taking a drink in a speakeasy was no crime." And he scratched it off the record, "Gumming up our registration with that kind of stuff!" he muttered impatiently.

PASSION FOR ANONYMITY
Lowell Mellett has just been named as one of President Roosevelt's executive assistants. "With a passion for anonymity."

The president himself asked for six of these aides, specifying the "anonymity passion" as the most essential of their qualifications.

Congress provided him with the sextet, though it didn't specify anonymity. The White House never has named the full six of them but it does pick one now and then. And (by gravity) they certainly are anonymous. Their appointments are announced at the time they're made, and that's the last that ever is heard of them. What they do, as executive assistants, heaven knows. I don't believe it would be possible to get a full list of 'em.

MELLETT THE INVISIBLE
Lowell undoubtedly is personally acquainted with as many newspapers as any scribe in the U. S. A. He's worked on important journalistic jobs, from ocean to ocean. He's been a Washington managing editor. But he always has been quite an advanced liberal. When his newspaper bosses turned conservative he quietly evaporated. Nobody knew much about it. He simply turned up missing.

Then the New Deal chose him as director of the office of government reports. He could have made a splash in that berth. It brought him into contact with publicity opportunities aplenty. He stayed as quiet as a mouse instead.

Besides being a presidential executive assistant he remains government reports director—twin positions. I'll gamble that he makes no more noise as twins than he did in his individual capacity. I've worked alongside that boy on several newspapers and boarded in the same house with him. Yet he's so anonymous that I scarcely know him any more. He surely has a passion for it.

Contrast Baths

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Special kinds of light or heat are not necessary for the successful treatment of arthritis. A home-made baker is suggested by the Council on Physical Therapy of the American Medical Association. It can be constructed out of an ordinary piece of sheet tin curved in a roof-like fashion on a framework of strap iron or rods. Two double electric sockets are attached to the under surface of the roof and the necessary wiring installed. Bulbs of either 60 or 120 watts, or a combination may be inserted. In short, the thing is a sort of half barrel-shaped arrangement which sits on the bed over the legs and gives them a good warming. Clamp lamps can be used in the same way for arthritis of the shoulder or wrist.

Contrast baths constitute a form of treatment discovered comparatively recently, which is very effective and is certainly typically suited to be a form of home treatment. Contrast baths consist in rapid alternations of immersion in hot and cold water. Obviously they are most convenient for arthritis of the extremities—the feet or hands, but they can be arranged for the elbows or knees. They are especially recommended for arthritis in connection with cold and clammy skin of the extremities.

A Simple Procedure
The procedure is simplicity itself. Obtain two pans or buckets big enough to immerse both hands or both feet. Also a clock, thermometer. One container should be filled with water at the temperature of 105 to 110° F. The other should be filled with cool tap water at about 55 to 60° F.

Experience has worked out quite a definite schedule which gives the best results. It is used to be advised that the feet or hands should be immersed first in the hot and then in the cold water at one minute intervals, ending with the hot.

Experimental studies on the dilatation and relaxation of the blood vessels, which is the object to be obtained, has shown that best results are obtained when immersion in the hot water is carried out for six minutes and the cold for four.

Many patients cannot endure such long periods of cold immersion, and the exact timing can be modified so long as the hot immersion is longer than the cold, and that the cold is carried out for at least two minutes. This may seem pedantic, but it is in accord with the changes in size of the smaller blood vessels which follow quite definite time schedules. At the Mayo Clinic they carry out hot-cold immersions at the following intervals of minutes: 5-2-5-2-5-2. A treatment thus lasts about half an hour. Treatments should be given three or four times a day.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Constant Reader, Logan, Ind.—"Is it harmful to take a teaspoonful of salts in warm water before breakfast? I am so constipated I have to take something all the time."

Answer—Salts simply add to constipation. Nobody ever got over constipation by using salts. Switch to bran or mineral oil for a while.

SYNOPSIS

READ THIS FIRST:
INTO THE offices of the great Consolidated Broadcasting company in search of a chance as a singer walks KIT REILLY, small-town songbird who seeks to make good in New York after a brief radio career in her home town. Meanwhile . . .

VANCE HEALEY, famed sports announcer and news commentator, is in conference with the boss, J. T. GREGORY, who tells Healey he has been transferred to a much humbler radio job because of his irresponsible actions. Though Healey has not recognized Kit they were classmates at college.

Having left her name with a request for an audition, Kit returns to her rented room, hungry and without the price of a meal.

CHAPTER TWO

KIT REILLY'S heels made no sound on the uncarpeted stairs—Kit was walking on her toes. She wished for no accidental meeting with her landlady. The angle of the accidental would have been entirely on her side; Mrs. McCarthy would have welcomed it.

Quick, light steps, more earnest than eager, brought her to the third floor landing and the harbor of her own room.

Opening and closing the door softly, she reached for the switch that illuminated the room from a single overhead bulb. Leaning against the door, she closed her eyes, shutting from view the white iron bed, a sagging wicker rocker and a single table topped with a clutter of books, a tin bread box and a small, red plush dachshund.

"Hi, Hercules!" she said to the latter.

She sucked in her breath. "Speaking of dogs," she muttered, and removed her shoes tenderly. The walk from the Consolidated building uptown to Greenwich Village had been a sore one. An empty stomach and empty hopes had added no cheer to her odyssey.

The condition of her stomach engaged her as an aromatic scent suggesting cooking vegetables, sweeter to her than the perfumes of Araby, wafted through the transom.

She picked up the little red dog and said to its silly, inanimate little face, "Such a bore to dine with the Vanderheims tonight, Hercules. I don't believe I'll dine at all."

Carefully she sat down in the rocker, pressing her fingers to her temples. Her momentary gallantry was done; neither her flesh nor her spirit could carry it with the make-believe.

There was a quick light tap on her door and she rose to open it, expecting to find Mrs. McCarthy.

The reassuring speech she had prepared against the moment when on her lips when she saw it was a stranger standing there. The girl with the untidy yellow hair, Kit remembered, had moved into the room across the way a few days before.

"Got a match, honey?" she asked in a hearty voice.

For a moment Kit's face was blank; she stood silent, blinking. Across the hall, back of her visitor, the door to a lighted room stood open, and through that door came the full, devastating scent of the cooking food.

She inhaled deeply. "Yes, I've got a match—somewhere," she said lingeringly, "rolonging the moment."

The other girl's eyes were quick to read what was written on Kit's face. She turned swiftly, saying, "Bring it over, will you? I don't want my stew to burn."

She was scooping it onto two soup plates when Kit came to her door. "Thanks," she said. "It's kinda lonesome eating alone. Had your supper yet?"

Kit shook her head. She felt she ought to go, but her feet were rooted in that room.

"That's all right. I hate to eat alone. . . . This stew'll put heart into a ditch digger. Will you cut some bread?"

Kit cut bread and studied her hostess with side-long glances. She thought: She looks like a frowsy angel.

Angels, she supposed, didn't wear soiled kimonos or bleach their hair. But she had no way of knowing, since no angel had presented either a helpful or purely celestial appearance when she needed one.

This one's name was Fran Le Maze, she said.

Kit ate, scarcely talking until the second bowl was emptied. Then she probed:

"You in show business, Fran?"

"In and out. Out at the moment. He about you?"

Kit nodded. "Out," she said succinctly.

"Tough."

They nodded to each other shortly.

"I got a call today for a turn in a kind of night club. Went through my whole routine and when I get through the guy has the nerve to ask me can I sing. I hafta tell him no I can't sing. Does he care that I had eight years in vaudeville doing one of the sweetest dancing acts that ever did forty weeks? No!"

Kit nodded sympathetically. "I know. If we could only show them what we can do. It's the chance that counts."

Fran cut a generous slice of bread and spread it with jam. "Have a piece of poor man's pie," she urged, putting it on Kit's plate. "What's your act?"

"I don't have an act. I only sing. At least, I used to think I could, but now I don't even get a chance to show people."

The mascara weighted lashes narrowed meditatively. "You can sing, huh? Can you pick up a dance routine? Or have you got a job? she asked, adding the last question for politeness' sake."

Kit said, "I'm out of a job. Out of darn near everything. I . . . I might be able to pick up a dance routine. I never did anything like that."

The other girl rummaged in the pocket of her kimono and found a battered cigaret. She offered it to Kit.

Kit shook her head.

"What did you do, youngster? Tell Aunt Fanny the whole story. We may be able to plot something."

"There isn't much to tell you. I come from a small city and sang in a choir, then for the local radio station. When my aunt died I had a little money and came to New York. Everybody back home thought I had a future. I wanted to get into a chorus and work up to light opera, but no luck."

"Go on."

"I've been here a year, waiting on tables, working in a dentist's office, in a department store. The usual thing. The last one hired and the first one fired. Right now, I'd . . . I'd do almost anything."

Fran blew a long curl of smoke through her mouth. She said casually, "Would you do a sister act in a dive nobody ever heard of for twenty bucks a week and two meals a day?"

"I said 'almost anything.'"

The other girl kicked off her bedroom slippers and fumbled under her coat, bringing out a pair of metal-tipped shoes. She slipped off her kimono, revealing herself in a bathing suit. "My rehearsal costume," she explained. "I was practicing a routine while I got supper. . . . You'd better take off that dress so that you can get plenty of movement. I'm going to teach you a little routine. . . . And if you can sing a couple of choruses, you can sing a couple of choruses, you and me'll join up in a sister act and show it to Luigi. What do you think of 'The Dancing Dolls' for a title?"

"Everything you say to me sounds like sweet music," Kit answered from the folds of the dress she was hastily pulling over her head.

"Good! Get some snappy music on the radio while I clear a space."

Kit twirled the dials. "The programs are changing now," she said as the squawks smoothed into a full volume of orchestral music. The music faded and a clear, ringing voice flowed into the room.

"You have just heard the first in a series of broadcast auditions conducted by the Sember Piano company, makers of the world's finest pianos. This—and twelve subsequent auditions in this series—is being conducted to discover the outstanding feminine voice in America. The winner in the series will be selected from the voices heard on this program from week to week. The judges' decision will be made at the end of the thirteenth audition broadcast. The winner will receive a five thousand dollar cash prize and a contract to star on a forthcoming series of programs sponsored by the Sember Piano company. The next audition will be heard on these same stations at the same time next Wednesday. This is Vance Healey speaking for the House of Sember. . . . This is the Consolidated Broadcasting company."

"Contests!" The blond girl said contemptuously. "Hey! What's that number?"

That number was "Yessir, That's My Baby," the theme song of the Hyles company, "makers of the world's finest baby talcum powder."

Fran did a few limbering exercises. Then she shuffled into a time-step. "Watch me, honey," she commanded. "One, two . . . one, two, three . . . one, two and break!"

Now, try it again. Watch carefully. Right foot first . . . one, two . . . one, two . . . one, two and break. Come on, try it! There are a lot of other places besides Buffalo to shuffle off to if we turn out to be any good together."

STARS SAY—

For Saturday, October 19

WHILE there may be sudden and disruptive situations to cope with on this day yet there are auguries of surprising successes with strenuous developments, the outcome of which depends upon a keen grasp of circumstances with due acumen and strategy. Shrewdness, diplomacy and subtlety, especially in transactions with group, fraternities, political bodies or business corporations engaged in secret or confidential enterprises. Peculiar, strange or irregular circumstances may culminate in curious entanglements or intrigues.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves intrigued into a year of surprising, unforeseen and strange involvements, which may be complex and confusing. Relations with groups, secret organizations or large corporations of problematical purpose should be handled with shrewdness, finesse and vigilance. The prospects are not entirely portentous but call for sagacity, clever understanding and caution. Be wary with strangers and doubtful propositions.

A child born on this day may be active and aggressive, possibly erratic and audacious, but may have a strange faculty for solving peculiar or perilous entanglements. It may have deep feelings and intuitions.

Words of Wisdom
Great trials seem to be a necessary preparation for great duties.—E. Thomson.

Today's Horoscope

A birthday today means that you should beware of entanglements in your love and business affairs in the next twelve months. Avoid precipitate conduct. A stranger will help you. The child born on this date will win much popularity and good fortune. His or her disposition will be warm-hearted and good. Such a person will have a refined, artistic and musical nature.

Hints on Etiquette
It is not necessary to reply to an invitation to a tea given by an organization unless such reply is requested.

Horoscope for Sunday
Is your birthday today? You will encounter opposition on the part of an elder during the next year, and your health may be indifferent, but before the year has run its course, your fortune will improve, so be not downhearted. Born today a child will be refined, humane, intellectual, energetic and ambitious, especially if born before noon. Genial, urbane, an excellent conversationalist and possessed of much world wisdom,

For Sunday, October 20
SUNDAY'S horoscope holds testimony of very lively affairs, with many interests moving along under high impetus and under exciting tempo, although there may be many inconsistencies and annoyances. Signs of progress and happiness may also develop obstructions, delays and inharmonies. It would be well to cultivate the good graces of superiors and elders.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate an exceedingly live, enterprising and constructive year, with the forces and faculties pitched to splendid levels of attainment. While there may be opposition, impediments and disap-

C. H. S. HI-Y CLUB INITIATES EIGHT NEW MEMBERS

Following their regular business meeting, Monday night, the Circleville Hi-Y club initiated eight new members. The boys were Richard Clifton, Jack Goldsberry, Ross Kerr, Jack Lake, Roy Norris, David Orr, Robert Schumm and Dudley Smallwood.

These boys were elected into the club Monday, October 7, at which time they were informed by Ralph Schumm, chairman of the initiation committee, that each would be required to bring three "paddles" to the next meeting.

When the time for their initiation arrived, the boys found that their own weapons were to be used against them. However, it can not be said that the older members of the club did not use subtle manners in their "paddling" procedure.

Questions were fired at the initiates at a mile-a-minute rate. "What's one and one?" "Two!" "Right." "Whack! Whack! What's the purpose?" "The Platform?" These and many other questions "bothered" the boys a short time, and then the initiation began in earnest.

During the course of the evening the boys digested raw eggs and raw oysters which were, as the initiates said, "delicious."

Following this, the eight were sent on separate missions which required a great deal of walking. One went to the golf course, another to the cemetery, others went west of town, and still others went far east. The boys returned from their various journeys assembled at a designated place and were informed that they were now full fledged members of the Hi-Y club.

Including the new members, the club enrollment now totals 30.

RED AND BLACK HAS COMPETITOR

Competition! Monday, the first issue of the Eagle Eye Gazette was distributed, one to each room in the high school.

Although no conspicuous names were printed on the "Gazette", we have learned that Nelson Jones, freshman, is the editor.

We, of the Red and Black, have read the "Gazette" from cover to cover. We all agree that the contents are good and hope he continues to "go to press."

The Eagle Eye Gazette consists of school activities, editorials and jokes.

Jones' press is located at his home on East Franklin Street.

BAND REHEARSED FOR GALA EVENT

A special band rehearsal was held Tuesday afternoon in preparation for participating in a band contest and various parade of the Pumpkin Show celebration. The trumpet section was also given two practice sessions to strengthen that section in certain marches. These were held on Monday and Tuesday nights.

After the beauty parade, Wednesday night, the band attended the Circleville-Bremen football game and between halves displayed several marching formations. Competition ran high at a band contest on the Circleville High's football field Thursday night in which the band participated. Other bands in class A which had entered were Lancaster, last year's winner, Logan, Groveport and Union Furnace. The judge acting on this occasion was Professor W. E. Crist, director of music at Capital University.

TWO CHS PUPILS ENTER CONTEST

For the healthiest boy and the healthiest girl contest held today in connection with the 4-H club parade, Don Valentine and Mary Lou Kochheiser were chosen to represent Circleville high school.

They compete with boys and girls from thirteen county schools. On Wednesday morning at the court house the girls were examined by Dr. Blackburn county health doctor and Miss Margaret Hunsicker county health nurse. On Thursday morning examinations were held for the boys.

Purpose of this parade was to find the healthiest boy and the healthiest girl in Pickaway County.

Contestants were to report at the gas office today at which time the winners' names were revealed.

EDITORIAL

It was in the "good ole days" that people recognized the necessity of proper and polite social conduct. Numerous are the stories that relate the chivalry and courtesy of our ancestors. Today many people especially those of the younger social set, have disregarded the proper rules of conduct with fellow men.

I do not wish to say that the younger generation is entirely unaware of social etiquette, but many are the occasions upon which we "forget ourselves" and bring humiliation to ourselves and our associates.

Politeness, courtesy and respect are attributes of a sincere gentleman or lady which by the way does not make one a "sissy" or "snob" as often mis-conceived. Such small courtesies as tipping a hat to a young lady or an older person, removing the hat in buildings, showing proper respect to elders, and many other, now dormant, actions can be the greatest help in the molding of good character.

It would be impossible to enumerate all the advantages of proper conduct but we might do well to review some of our biggest mistakes. "Booting" and like demonstrations at any contest, whether school or not, can be a great peril to one's reputation. While riding bicycles or driving automobiles, the least we can do to express our appreciation for these modern conveniences is to use them properly and courteously.

What would be a greater attribute than to boast a school and even a community that observes with diligence the rules of proper social conduct? What should you think if you saw your father wearing his hat while the national anthem was being played or the flag carried by? Our elders are very observant of the little things we do because they are curious to determine what type of social order they are going to leave. Let's show them what we really can be in all respects—it means exerting but a little of our energy and thoughtfulness.

—A Senior.

CLASS MEMBERS BUILD PROJECTS

Recently C. F. Zaenglein announced a plan that has been put into effect in his advanced manual training class. The class has an arrangement with the two local lumber companies that call for the companies' supplying the raw materials necessary to construct various objects and the class doing the work necessary to complete the projects. The class members at present are making hog houses, brooder houses, chicken coops and one-car garages.

After the class completes these various frame buildings the lumber companies sell the finished products to the public for the cost of the material thus saving them the cost of labor.

Mr. Zaenglein has stated that this arrangement can be of great value to high school pupils inasmuch as there projects give pupils practical carpenter experience. He hopes that the public will cooperate by taking advantage of the opportunities offered them in the finished product.

CLUB PLANS ASSEMBLY

While other pupils were enjoying their Pumpkin Show vacation, Poetry club members were busy practicing for their assembly program. This presentation, the first of this year's assemblies given by a school club, will be next Friday at 8:30. Club members plan to give a short radio play, written in verse, and present some musical selections by Ohio composers.

FLAGS DONATED FOR SCHOOL BY PATRIOTIC CLUBS

An increased interest in the observance of American allegiance to the flag was planned this week after the superintendent's office had completed a survey which disclosed that more American flags were needed in classrooms.

Frank Fischer, school superintendent, has announced that through the co-operation of several local patriotic organizations and through the courtesy of Edward C. Ebert and Howard Irwin, flags have been donated for every classroom in the city. The flags, 12 inches by 18 inches, have been arranged on pedestals by manual training classes under the direction of C. F. Zaenglein. The flags were distributed Wednesday to the various teachers who will display them in their class rooms.

It is possible that the Elks Lodge may donate several larger flags which would be added to those already on display in the main hall of each building, the superintendent's office added.

A quotation accompanying this announcement stated, "Particularly during these times it is highly important that the salute to the flag be given wide attention in our schools . . ." Accordingly the salute to the flag will be observed daily by all elementary pupils, and it will be given in all future assemblies by the high school.

Circleville high school, through the Red and Black, wishes to thank those responsible for the completion of such a worthy project, by which school pupils will become more aware of their deep respect for the flag and their country.

CLUB TO ATTEND CHURCH SUNDAY

During the business portion of the Hi-Y meeting the club discussed several projects. Glenn Barnhart reported that the club as a group would attend the United Brethren Church, Sunday, October 27, at 10:30.

Jack Beck, presiding officer, appointed various committees to work with Paul Turner in preparing a Hi-Y social affair after the Senior Girl Reserves entertain the Hi-Y at a dance, October 29.

William Burget will provide the program at the next meeting. A complete semester program schedule has been offered the club by the program committee chairman, Paul Turner.

JUNIOR RESERVE SELLS AT GAME

Alice Roof, faculty adviser, called a special meeting of the Junior Girl Reserves, Monday at 3:45.

This week the Girl Reserves had charge of a booth at the Bremen football game Wednesday night and at the band contest on Thursday night, both events taking place on the high school field.

General chairman for this project was Julia Jane Work; her aides were Carolyn Herrmann and Bette Waters.

At the meeting Miss Roof asked the girls to bring the refreshments to the school by 6:30 on Thursday evening.

Those girls who helped were Rosemary Brown, Fedema Cooper, Mary Crites, Florence Dressbach, Mary Ellen Fissell, Monna Lee Hanley, Barbara Helwagen, Ann Hott, Ruth Melvin and Anna Sue Reichelderfer.

There was no meeting of the Girl Reserves on Thursday afternoon because of the school holiday.

C. H. S. ART CLASS ENTERS CONTEST

Circleville art class pupils are participating in a contest sponsored by an Ohio corporation with local affiliations. The pupil making the best sketch of Deanna Durbin, Universal star, will receive a year's pass to the Grand theater. Several more prizes will also be given.

Art students in our school welcome this encouragement in their work by one of the city's enterprises. Such interest tends to make them feel their work is functioning, and they are encouraged to put forth their utmost ability.

The manager of the theatre contacted Mrs. Brunelle Downing, art instructor, and suggested this contest. She hopes the project is only the beginning of this kind of cooperation between business and art.

Assembly

Since October 18 is Ohio Poetry Day, we used this as the theme for our assembly program. Rev. C. L. Thomas spoke on the subject "What you see in Poetry." Besides giving us a very delightful picture of the value of poetry, he read to use several poems written by outstanding American authors.

The boys intra-mural tournament closed Friday as Welmer Perrill's team defeated Doyle Campbell's team. The second team, managed by Perrill, was undefeated.

Lineup:
C. Peters, left field; Barr, center field; Strawser, first; Perrill, pitcher; Wilcox, second; Kerns, right field; Kinsell, shortstop; Balthaser, short field; Eccard, center field; Drizigacher, third; Scorer, Marjorie Peters.

Commercial Department
The Commercial Club is planning a Halloween party. A committee was selected to serve for the year. The members are Dorothy Mayberry, chairman, Helen Ruth Lamb, Jeanne Noeher, and Mary Kathryn Badger.

F. F. A.
On October 10, the Walnut Chapter Future Farmers of America held their regular monthly meeting. At the meeting the boys decided to have their greenhand initiation the next meeting. They talked about exhibits for the Circleville Pumpkin Show.

They plan to exhibit twenty-three hogs, five cattle, eight sheep, and eighteen chickens, corn, potatoes, clover seed, and things the boys have made in shop.

The F. F. A. boys gave an interesting program at the Parent-Teachers Association meeting October 14. On the program were the following—High School Band, F. F. A. chorus, talks by Joe Hedges, Don Fisher, Rodney Ward, Robert Cromley and Robert Litten.

First Grade News
We are getting ready for Halloween. We have three pumpkins to make pumpkin faces. On our bulletin board we have pictures of owls, bats, cats, and a pumpkin face.

Susan Hedges had a birthday this week. She was six years old. Nine of her friends went home with her after school for her party.

Second Grade News
This week we brought to school the brightest colored leaves that we could find. We shelled our leaves so that they would keep.

Halloween is coming. There are witches, bats, black cats, and pumpkin faces all around our room.

Fourth Grade News
In geography, a study of the Yellowstone National Park has been completed. We learned about the geysers, animals, and the Yellowstone River Canyon. Now, an imaginary trip is being taken from New York City to South Africa. We are going to visit two children in the Amazon River Valley.

During art class autumn pictures have been colored. We are busy making Halloween cut-outs. There are cats, foder shocks, pumpkins, witches, and bats.

DARBY TWP. SCHOOL NEWS

The P. T. A. meeting will not be held this week, but it has been planned to be held Thursday, October 24 and will be in charge of the 4-H Club girls and boys when they will present their achievement program.

Darby's boys suffered a bad defeat in a ball game Friday at the hands of the Deertree boys from Williamsport. The score was 10 to 5. Darby's score was low because the boys are training more for the oncoming basketball season.

Assembly was in charge of the Senior Class Friday and it presented an interesting program in which the audience also took part. A debate on the third term issue was the principal and serious part of the program, while a truth and consequence contest supplied the humorous side.

Two wiener roasts were held Friday night, one by the Seniors at Evelyn Stinchcomb's home and the other by the Sophomore Class in Blas's woods. Each class reported having had an enjoyable and pleasant evening of fun.

Greenfield Continues Its Winning Way; Lions Tops

Greenfield McClain continued to show strength Friday evening by defeating Wilmington's Hurricane in a 20 to 6 game. The same varied attack that left the Circleville Tigers amazed worked to perfection against the Wilmington boys.

Newland, Orr and Grate were stars for the McClain outfit. Scully scored Wilmington's touchdown.

Washington C. H., another South Central Ohio foe of the Tigers, took Chillicothe in a 7-3 game played on the Fayette County seat field. Washington scored in the last quarter on a pass, Spetnagel to Alkire. Chillicothe, which has scored only one touchdown this year, counted on a field goal.

Hillsboro, foe of the Tigers in their last game, won from Manchester, 25 to 6.

The Wilmington team comes to Circleville next Friday night in a resumption of the SCO league race. Last year the Hurricane took the Tigers into camp on the Clinton County field, the running of Earl Jones, crack Negro halfback, outdistancing the Tiger defense.

Coach Roy Black hopes to have his boys ready for Wilmington, although Jack Beck, who has started the last two games at left tackle, will not be available because of a knee injury. Frank Geib, whose left knee was injured in the Groveport game, will be ready for work next week.

BUCKS TO FACE MIGHTY OUTFIT UNDER BIERMAN

Minnesota Team Strong In All Positions; Speedy Strausbaugh Ready

COLUMBUS, Oct. 19.—Minnesota's Golden Gophers, impressive victors in their first two games, invade Ohio Stadium for the first time today when they face Ohio State in a significant Western Conference encounter.

The Bucks, 1939 Big Ten champions, have dropped one conference game to date; Minnesota will be playing its first conference contest of the season. The game tomorrow may determine the future complexion of the current title race.

The Gophers will come to Columbus well primed for the day's outstanding grid tussle. While Ohio State went down to defeat before a spirited Northwestern eleven last Saturday, Minnesota enjoyed a day's respite from the grid wars. Coach Bernie Bierman has had two weeks to groom his charges for the Bucks.

Ohio State scouts report the Gophers have reached the same high peak of performance they displayed in their conference winning drives of former seasons. In their opening game this fall the north country gridders blasted Washington 19 to 14. Continuing in high gear they ploughed through Nebraska 13 to 7 the following week.

The Bucks will face the toughest array of backs they have been called on to stop this season. Speed and power in equal balance—that's the picture of the Gopher backfield. Bierman may start any one of a number of possible combinations. One unit would see Bob Paffrath at quarterback, George Franck at left half, Bruce Smith at right half and Bob Sweiger at fullback.

Change Possible

With two victories and one loss to their credit the Bucks will be striving to get back in the conference race and to repeat their brilliant victory of one year ago at Minneapolis. Coach Francis A. Schmidt has not indicated any major changes in his Ohio State lineup.

"The Bucks' hopes will be bolstered by the return to action of Jim Strausbaugh. Ohio State's ace left half of the 1939 campaign who has been idle with a sprained ankle. Strausbaugh went in for two minutes against Northwestern last Saturday but had no opportunity to get under way.

LITTLE PAT WINS FINALE IN OHIO RACING SEASON

COLUMBUS, Oct. 19.—Little Pat, king of pacers and owned by Homer D. Biery, of Butler, Pa., today had wound up the 1940 harness racing season in Ohio by winning the feature event in the Indian Summer Circuit at the Ohio State Fairground.

It also marked Little Pat's 13th win of this year and his 55th of his life. He paced his two miles in 2:03-4 and 2:03 as his stablemate Stoneridge Direct came in second both times.

Dr. H. M. Parshall drove his last race of the year and won with Fearless Peter, owned by Dr. L. M. Gullinger of Andover, O. Mickey G, owned by Sam Lewis of Cleveland and driven by Doc McMillen, of London, took the classified pace although dropping the middle heat to Symbol Prince, driven by Parshall.

He said Friday's attendance was about 20 percent off, and that Saturday's, if the rain continues, will be even more.

Some of the concessions are reporting good business, while others are lamenting the cold weather that prevailed during the first three days of the show, and the rain that appeared certain to cut down Saturday's crowd.

Show Closes at 12

With the arrival of Saturday came a warning from Police Chief W. F. McCrady that the show must stop at 12 o'clock midnight. State Fair laws prevent any show to continue into Sunday morning, the chief points out, so the clamp will be placed.

Many persons continued to visit the various exhibits, expressing their enjoyment over the excellent flower display, and various other exhibits that have been much better than usual.

BALKANS TENSE; EDEN MAY VISIT SOVIET CAPITAL

British War Secretary To Seek Improvement Of Relations

There was a report that Sir Stafford Cripps, British ambassador to Moscow, might attend this meeting, but this was not definite.

Turkish Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu was expected to sit in on the British conference, chief topic of which will be speedy improvement of Russo-Turkish relations, according to reports received here.

Immediately thereafter Eden may go to Moscow with a program embracing offers that Britain and Turkey would be prepared to make in return for Soviet cooperation.

To Guard Dardanelles

The first objective was believed to be a Russo-Turkish defensive alliance safeguarding the Dardanelles against any axis attempts to advance through that area from Romania or Bulgaria toward the oil fields of Mesopotamia.

German forces, meanwhile, were establishing themselves ever more firmly in Romania. Latest advices from Bucharest said they were planning to train 200,000 Romanian soldiers in methods of modern mechanized warfare.

JAPANESE HURL MANY BOMBS ON BURMA HIGHWAY

Chinese munitions dump was blown up by a series of direct hits.

A communique said Japan's dive bombers swept low over the city and encountered no Chinese aerial resistance.

The raid was launched shortly after trucks, laden with supplies for the Chinese forces, began streaming into Kunming after Britain reopened the 700-mile road Thursday night.

Japanese circles hinted that both Kunming and the highway itself would be subjected to continued, fiercer raids.

Meanwhile, plans to reopen the Hong Kong route into China remained indefinitely postponed pending further diplomatic negotiations.

UNUSUAL DISPLAY PUT ON FOR PUMPKIN SHOW FOLK

E. Emil Albright of Knox County, a former Monroe Township resident, was a Pumpkin Show visitor Saturday, bringing with him a display of spider webs gathered by his son, Albert, 19, a sophomore in the Case School of Applied Science, Cleveland.

The son is paying his way through school with this hobby, the spider webs being used in the optical and other related industries.

The Albrights removed from Pickaway County to Knox County, near Fredericktown, about seven years ago.

"SPRING Parade", Deanna Durbin's most elaborate picture, reveals the popular star in a striking series of vividly contrasting sequences. The story traces the gay career of a beautiful peasant girl who finds romance in the majestic splendor of an emperor's palace. Robert Cummings is Deanna's leading man. The picture opens Sunday at the Grand Theatre for a three day run.

31,000 OHIOANS TO HEAR DRAFT CALL

Ohio State Medical Association. They have been sent to President Roosevelt for approval.

A list of all Pickaway County persons who have registered under the Conscription Act will be completed by the Pickaway County Selective Service Board in the early part of next week.

Work is progressing rapidly, D. D. Dowden, board secretary, said Saturday, and indications are that all names will be listed by Monday or Tuesday.

After sorting, all the cards were shuffled and the task of numbering started. The last number assigned was 2,607, but additional cards received from out-of-county sources have boosted the total to 2,884. Ninety-eight cards were received from 20 other states, and 179 cards were received from 36 different Ohio counties.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES,
O. S. U. floriculturist

QUESTION: I want to plant a hedge to grow as high as my neighbors garage for a nice background that will not take up too much space. Should I buy hawthorn? If not, why not? Mrs. M. K., Cleveland.

ANSWER: Hawthorn makes an excellent hedge. I suggest you use either the English hawthorn or the Washington Thorn. If you wished another hedge slightly less expensive for this purpose I would like to recommend the Chinese elm. This is really the best use for the Chinese Elm in Ohio. Other shrubs that you might use would be the Ibo-ta privet, the glossy buckthorn, for a copy of our bulletin on ornamental evergreens. This will give you complete information on their planting, pruning, fertilization, and care. It will also recommend the best varieties for this climate.

QUESTION: Do you have any information in regard to an illustrated book of our northern trees? I have been looking for some time for the best book of this kind as a gift for my family. Mrs. I. T. D., Chicago.

ANSWER: I believe the one book that will meet this description is Romeyn B. Hough's Handbook of American Trees. It is completely illustrated showing the habit of growth, the bark, the flowers, the fruit and the leaves of all of the native trees of the eastern part of the United States.

QUESTION: We have a number of elms, some of the most beautiful I have ever seen. The borers are very bad. Do you think we would have them sprayed with any success when there are other unsprayed trees in the neighborhood? Mrs. M. M., Castletown-on-Hudson.

ANSWER: It is impossible for me to give you any definite method of control for the borers in your elms without knowing which kind of borers they are. Usually, none of the various borers in trees can be controlled in any way by spraying. The Ohio State University extension bulletin, Insects on Elms, will give you complete descriptions of the various pests and the various methods of control. This may be obtained from Ohio county agricultural agents.

QUESTION: Do you have anything on the trimming and care of evergreens? I would be very thankful for the same. C. L. B.

ANSWER: May I suggest you ask your county agricultural agent

"GOLD Rush Maize" is the Circle Theatre's picture, scheduled for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. It stars Ann Southern and Virginia Weidler. Hit No. 2 is "Bullets for Rustlers", starring Charles Starrett.

BING Crosby and Mary Martin appear above in a scene from "Rhythm on the River", which starts a three day engagement Sunday at the Cliftona Theatre. The four principals are Crosby, Miss Martin, Oscar Levant and Basil Rathbone.

is on my African violet. N. E. H., Fredericktown.

ANSWER: The white, fuzzy insect on your African Violet is the mealybug. This is easily controlled by taking them off individually with a little cotton on the end of a toothpick dipped in alcohol. They may be controlled by spraying the plants with proper materials. Incidentally, we have a mimeographed leaflet on the culture and care of African violets which we will be very glad to send to anyone upon request.

QUESTION: We would like to have what available material you have for the planting, care and cultivation of roses. C. E. C.

ANSWER: I suggest you ask your county agent for a copy of our bulletin, Garden Roses. This will give you complete information.

QUESTION: I have always had evergreens in front of my house. The shade of the large maple trees ruined them. I thought I would like to try bushes or shrubs and see how they would do. Could you suggest any that do not shed all their leaves in the winter? The foundation of my house needs something at least four or five feet high. F. T. P., Chillicothe.

ANSWER: It is extremely difficult to grow plants in the shade of large maples. With a deep preparation of your soil, regular fertilization, and a heavy watering during the growing season, some plants may be maintained under such a condition. Among the needed evergreens that might be used for this purpose are the Japanese yew and the hemlock. As you have probably discovered, the arbutus and the various junipers are not adapted to shade. Among the broadleaved evergreens, I would particularly recommend the Mahonia or Oregon hollygrape, the evergreen bittersweet (Euonymus radicans vegetus; and, in your case, since your soil is acid you would be able to grow rhododendrons and mountain laurel. For these last two I would recommend that you mix your soil with at least half peat and leaf mold and apply yearly applications of aluminum sulfate or sulfur to maintain the necessary acidity. Shrubs that would grow under these conditions of shade would include the Regal privet, Alpine current, Five-leaf Aralia, yellow Kerria, Thunbergia spirea, Morrow honeysuckle, and Japanese quince.

LAST PARALYSIS CASE REPORTED CLEARED UP

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, announced Saturday that the last infantile paralysis quarantine in the county has been lifted, as health officials removed the quarantine from Fay Isaac, Corwin Street school girl, Saturday.

The quarantine placed on Elaine Stoker, Atlanta school girl, was lifted Friday. No other cases have been reported in the county.
